CITY OF NORFOLK.

NORFOLK, situated on the right bank of Elizabeth river, in Norfolk county, lat. $36^{\circ} 56'$, long. $76^{\circ} 19'$, is the principal seaport of Virginia. The distance to Hampton Roads is 8 miles—to Richmond, by the James river 140 miles, and by the Norfolk and Petersburg and the Richmond and Petersburg Rail Roads about 100 miles.

Daily lines of steamers connect Norfolk with Richmond and Baltimore, and semi-weekly lines with Philadelphia and New York. By Rail Roads Norfolk is connected through Petersburg with the North and West, and by the Seaboard and Roanoke Rail Road with the South. The population is over 20,000.

Norfolk has superior Hotel accommodations. Walters' National Hotel is a first-class house, with an excellent landlord (W. L. Walters) and very gentlemanly clerks. A new Hotel has recently been erected and will be occupied shortly.

We do not intend to write a history of Norfolk, or her commerce, as a great deal has already been written on those points, and it would be difficult to write anything new: we will only make some extracts from statistics kindly furnished us by the Clerk of the Merchants and Mechanics' Exchange:

VEGETABLE OR TRUCK TRADE.—The following table will show the number of barrels, boxes and baskets of peas, cucumbers, beans, tomatoes, radishes, rhubarb, asparagus, apples, pears, peaches, &c. with the total exports to each market during the months of June, July and August, 1858:

	Packages.	Value.
New York,	52,301	$183,053 50
Philadelphia,	7,305	25,567 50
Baltimore,	67,424	235,984 00
Richmond,	1,565	5,477 50
Total,	128,595	$450,872 50

The above packages are estimated at $3 50, which is a low figure, as the largest portion of them were barrels of cucumbers, radishes, potatoes, &c., which in the early part of the season commanded six to ten dollars each.

The foregoing statement shows a very large amount shipped to Baltimore; and it is proper to remark that much of it went through to Philadelphia, Washington, and even as far as Cincinnati, via the former city.

In addition to the above, there have been from 75,000 to 100,000 watermelons shipped hence to Northern ports, during the season.

Upon a comparison of the foregoing statement with that made last year, it will be seen that this trade has very rapidly increased. The total quantity shipped last year was 96,099 packages, valued at $336,346 50. We have, therefore, an increase this year in quantity of 32,496 packages, and in value of $113,736 00.

GRAIN TRADE.

Corn.—The exports during the year ending 1st May, 1858, were as follows:

Foreign and Coastwise, (bushels,)	2,069,779
To which add for home consumption,	150,000
Total,	2,219,779

The above report is probably very nearly correct for last year's receipts, but forms no proper criterion of our usual corn trade. Owing to the general shortness of the crop, and its almost entire failure in some sections, we were for many months actually shipping corn from Norfolk to many points from which we ordinarily draw a portion of our supplies. The receipts during the five months ending 1st May, 1858, as appear by the books of the Exchange, amounted to 1,463,320 bushels.

Flour.—By means of a line of railway extending far into the Western portion of Carolina, and by the James River and Kanawha Canal, now open to tide-water, a large and fertile section of country has been made tributary to our city, and large quantities of Flour now seek a market here, the quality of which is unsurpassed, and which can be sold at prices that will compare favorably with neighboring cities, and at the same time offer inducements for shipment to European and Eastern markets. The foreign trade in this article is annually increasing, and we have reason to anticipate a greater demand, which will cause the receipts to be largely increased. The inspections for the year ending 1st May, 1858, amounted to 20,719 barrels.

Other Grains.—The exports of Peas for the past year have amounted to 31,868 bushels. Oats, 20,203 bushels. Pea-Nuts, 117,284 bushels. These statistics are independent of the quantity sold for home consumption.

WATER LINE TO THE OHIO—Among the various improvements which are calculated to exert a favorable influence upon the trade of Norfolk, the continuation of the water-line to the Ohio, may be considered as the most important. A glance at the map of Virginia, shows that the head waters of the "James" and the "Kanawha" rivers, rise within five miles of each other,—the first running in nearly a direct line East to the harbor of Norfolk, and the other running in almost an equally direct line to the Ohio river. The James for one hundred and forty, and the Kanawha, with some improvements, for ninety miles, are now navigable for steamboats. On the James, the river has been improved by canal and slack water navigation to Buchanan. On the Kanawha the river can be improved for steamboats to Greenbrier bridge, one hundred and eighteen miles further. These two points are about eighty miles apart, and can be, it is said, connected by a canal, which will afford a continuous line of water navigation to the Ohio, thence to the Mississippi, and thence up the Missouri, Nebraska and Kansas rivers, to the foot of the Rocky Mountains.

A late pamphlet on this subject, ably written by a gentleman of this city, and circulated to a considerable extent, makes the following claims, which are enforced by strong facts, and as yet unrefuted arguments:

1st. That the unparalleled size, safety, depth and convenience of the harbor of Norfolk, together with its central position, its being the converging point of several important lines of railway and several natural or artificial lines of internal water communications, make it the natural commercial centre of the Atlantic coast.

2d. That the situation of Cairo, Ill., being the converging point of the Tennessee, Cumberland, Ohio, Wabash, Illinois, Mississippi, Missouri, Nebraska and Kansas rivers, (the nine large rivers of the West, Northwest and interior, which collectively, wholly, or in part drain the waters of fifteen large and productive States and Territories of the Union, and must eventually be the avenues of their commerce,) is the natural centre of interior trade.

3d. That the connection between the two great Virginia rivers before alluded to, will establish an unbroken water line between the two great centres above mentioned, giving the produce concentrating at Cairo, an outlet to the Atlantic at Norfolk, cheaper, quicker, safer and more reliable than any that now exists, or can ever be established, and giving the Territory drained by the rivers above named, the same advantage in receiving their commercial supplies in return.

And 4th. That the advantages of this route, its great length of steam tonnage—its freedom from frost, transhipment, forwarding charges, and heavy insurance, will enable it to carry the produce collected at Cairo, to the Atlantic, at Norfolk, one-third cheaper than it can reach any other Atlantic port, and giving it a still greater advantage over the route by New Orleans, with a like advantage in return cargoes: that these advantages will make this the greatest interior trade avenue of the Universe, and Norfolk one of the most important points of foreign and domestic trade on this continent.
